

GREENWOOD CITY

— Mrs. Colista Morgan, Corvus. —

A golden dawn seemed to have thrown its yellow light into the early blue of a glorious day. The softness of September has come and there's a brief period of beauty just before the brilliant colors of fall spread over our land.

Millions of people watch and rejoice in the endless variety of the sea; the waves breaking against the shore, shifting sands; and I was one of the million one day recently. All worry, dust, and city air was replaced with a clean, fresh salt-langy breeze from the sea on arrival.

At first we ate our lunch then moved to a place of drop-off, facing the Atlantic with no beach; just a wilderness of ledges below us.

In the far distance near the surface of the water all was shrouded in mist. But as we chose a place to watch the waves roll in the sun had burned through clouds that might have formed over the sea.

Fishermen occasionally arrived as solitary figures pulling slatted lobster traps.

As far as eye could see along the shoreline were rough, then smooth fantastic rocks "growing" everywhere devoid of vegetation making a surface not easy to describe.

Spread out before us was the splashed reflection of the sun shining back from the water. All was peaceful and glassy, the air balmy. We felt relaxed and content just to sit and watch.

Sandpipers with alert eyes came within a few yards as did the gulls to see what we were about. The sandpipers seem always in a hurry. They dart forward, probe then retreat from an oncoming wave as twilight footed as if they were on a hot plate.

A loon was curious and came to inspect a few yards off shore.

The waves were the same yet ever different. Only when almost to the shore did the swells cave in, falling with the gurgle of a dying breaker, an indrawn breath, a boom the receding wash. The fluffed meringues along the ledges were a contrast to the colorful glory of glinting peacock tints. We spoke of the slumbering passion of its lurking treachery, of the rages into which it could lash itself. The sullen swells could roll up at the nod of its master, the wind.

The breeze now blowing in was exhilarating.

Time passes. Although the sun was still high, we had to leave.

A few gulls were competing for altitude records in a cloudless sky as we took our way homeward. But that vision of out-of-the-world beauty still is linked with all my memories.

The Upton Union Church held a meeting Saturday night. It was voted to hold the next annual meeting the Saturday preceding Labor Day of 1972. It was decided to hold church services on Saturday night next summer on a temporary basis. A complete financial report was given and discussed. The large chandelier which hung from the ceiling of the church and was equipped with kerosene lamps before the church had electricity was discussed and described by some who remembered it. The group decided to look in the grange hall to see if were stored there. Some checked the back rooms while one inspected the kitchen cupboards, cutlery drawers and boxes of kitchen supplies. The chandelier was not found. Does anyone know what became of it?

Most of the camps were full over the week end. Labor Day brought a drain on what authors call "summer complaint" but as one lady said to the part-time residents,

MRS. WALTER H. BOND

Mrs. Walter Huntington Bond of Bethel, honorary president of the Bethel Senior Citizens, died Monday morning, Sept. 6, 1971, at a Rumford nursing home where she had been a patient several weeks.

Florence Thompson Bond was born at Brooklyn Heights, N. Y., 1889, the daughter of Charles and Carolyn Jayne Seward Thompson. She was a grand-niece of William Henry Seward, Secretary of State in the cabinet of President Abraham Lincoln.

With her late husband she had been a summer resident of Newry at Sonnydale Farm for many years, while maintaining their home in Garden City, Long Island. They moved to Bethel about 10 years ago. Mr. Bond, a well-known attorney and outdoorsman, died in January of 1963.

During six years as president of the Senior Citizens, Mrs. Bond endeavored herself to her adopted community by her energetic efforts to make the organization interesting and helpful to its members. On her retirement from active leadership in March, 1970, she was named Honorary President.

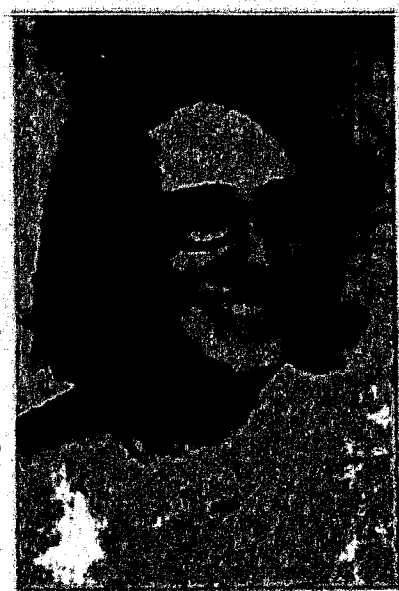

Recognizing the rather extraordinary contributions which she made to others, she was named to receive the first annual Senior Citizen Achievement award by the Greater Bethel Chamber of Commerce in 1969.

She attended the Bethel Methodist Church.

Surviving Mrs. Bond are two daughters, Mrs. Heber (Virginia) Lloyd, Suffield, Conn.; and Mrs. Francis (Patricia) Doon, Bethel; a step-daughter, Mrs. Madeline Bond Fisher, Wellesley Hills, Mass.; and a step-son, Jamison Bond, Grosse Point, Mich. There are three grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at the Greenleaf funeral home on this Thursday afternoon, with the Rev. Thomas Caton officiating. Committal services were held at the Riverside Cemetery, Bethel.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford W. Laws, of Rockcraft Lodge, East Sebago, and formerly residents of Bethel, announce the engagement of their daughter Martha Elizabeth, to Frederick H. Anderson, Jr., of Newton, Mass., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Anderson of Reading, Mass.

Miss Laws is a graduate of Boston University and Gould Academy. She is presently employed as a secretary at Allyn & Bacon publishing house in Boston.

Mr. Anderson is a graduate of Boston University and works as a staff consultant at International Data Corp., Newton, Mass.

A May wedding is planned.

BETHEL EVENING EXTENSION

HARRY E. MASON

Harry E. Mason, Bethel's oldest citizen, died Sunday evening, Sept. 5, 1971, at a Portland nursing home. Born Aug. 7, 1868, he was the son of Charles and Melissa Mason, and great-grandson of the first Moses Mason, one of Bethel's earliest pioneers. Thus born of New England stock and reared in the New England tradition, his personality throughout the years reflected and exemplified this heritage.

He attended Gould Academy and was graduated in the class of '87. But the student life held little appeal. It was the market place that intrigued him, and at the early age of 19 he left home, determined to achieve for himself a career in the world of business. He enrolled at Gray's Business College, Portland, and upon completion of his course was immediately employed by Twichell Chapman as city buyer. His next position was with Webb & Cushing, manufacturer of ladies shoes and located at Portland and Freeport. He was soon advanced to chief accountant and director. His association with the company continued for several years and it was during this time that he became interested in Masonry.

He joined the Freeport Blue Lodge, the Yarmouth Chapter, and the Brunswick Council. These memberships never lapsed throughout the years and in 1955 he was presented the honorary fifty year certificate by the Yarmouth Chapter. In 1967 Freeport Lodge presented an additional star for his 50 year medal dedicating 70 years of Masonic service.

In 1898 after six months in Europe and the British Isles, a trip combining business and pleasure, Mr. Mason became associated with the Baker Extract Company of Springfield, Mass., and was given full charge of its Boston office. He became a resident of Boston where he resided for 40 years. In 1900 he became director and executive vice president of Baker Extract Company, which position he held for 40 years. He was one of two major stockholders of the company. He was also director and vice president of St. John Extract Company, New York City; a director of Colton Extract Company, West Springfield, Mass.; a director of Van Duzer Extract Company, New York City.

The breadth of his social and civic activities is evidenced by the organizations with which he was affiliated. He was a member of St. Omer Commandery, Boston; Aleppo Temple, Boston; Boston Chamber of Commerce; New England Council; Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston; New England Manufacturers' Association; Armonk Country Club; and The Boston City Club.

In 1929 Mr. Mason married the former Muriel Park, who survives. Also surviving is a nephew, Dr. Charles Morgan Mason (Ph.D. Yale) of Pittsburgh, a chemist for the United States Bureau of Mines.

In 1940 upon retirement and after a year of travel, Mr. Mason became a resident of Bethel, where he served as vice president of Bethel National Bank, and until his decease, as trustee of Gould Academy. His life-long hobby, the field of investment, now became his chief interest. And from it he derived both mental enjoyment and material reward. Always a realist, he did not strive to be forever young. He met the challenge of age courageously, realistically, philosophically. To him, age was

"An opportunity no less Than youth itself."

"Though in another dress"

It was his philosophy that guided his declining years. And they were years of rich fulfillment. "The last of life for which the first was made." Thus in the longer view, nothing is here for tears. Mr. Mason's life was long, and successfully, happily lived.

There will be no funeral services. Memorial services will be held in Bethel on a later date.

If desired memorial contributions may be made to Gould Academy in his memory.

IT IS ALWAYS DOCTOR APPRECIATION WEEK

A doctor always must be emotionally geared to handle any emergencies. Any phone call or visit can result in a situation where on-the-spot decisions must be made that can affect a person's life. Sometimes a doctor will call us late at night for a medicine that must be quickly made available for a seriously ill patient. We are glad to help.

Too many of us take our doctors for granted. We do not stop to realize the long, arduous years of study and preparation and the very exacting life a physician must lead. In the pharmacy we are in close contact with doctors and it is very evident to us how much they give of themselves.

Due to the increased number of prescriptions and in order to keep up good service, it would be to our mutual advantage, if you would please phone in rather than prescriptions. — Thank you.
